

Wilch Apartments is a three-story building located at the corner of 1st Street SW and 5th Avenue. The building houses 16 students in a mix of two-person, three-person, four-person and five-person apartments. Each apartment is air-conditioned and has a kitchen, bathroom and common living space. Furniture is provided in each bedroom; however, the College does not provide common area furniture.

Eligibility

All students returning to Cornell for the next academic year are eligible to sign up for housing in the Wilch Apartments. Apartment-style living offers more independent living options for students and requires a high level of maturity. Therefore, these options are not made available to students whose disciplinary records indicate they are not ready for this arrangement. Generally, this means no conduct violations for the past year. This also means that students who are found responsible for violating a College policy while living in Cornell suites or apartments are at risk for being removed from that living environment. Students who are listed on the lottery form give their consent for the Residence Life Office to review their conduct history at Cornell College.

For example, a three-person group would need to preference the three-person apartment. Groups may also preference a larger apartment and indicate a willingness to split into smaller groups if they don't secure the larger apartment. So, a five-person group could preference getting the five-person apartment, and indicate a willingness to split into up to two smaller groups to hopefully allow some members to secure a lower occupancy apartment if the larger occupancy apartment isn't available.

Selection Process

Each group will be sorted based on their combined room selection status, and then ordered within those status based on the best room draw number within their group. Residence Life will use the selection order to determine which group will fill the largest capacity apartment available first. The selection order will then be used to fill the next largest capacity apartment remaining, and so on, until all apartments have been filled.

Determining Your Group

Groups will list their first choice of apartment preference in the required section on the top of the back of this form.

- A group's first choice must be for an apartment that is large enough to fit exactly the number of group members. For example, this means that a three-person group must preference the three-person apartment
- Larger groups have the option to split their members into up to two smaller groups should they not get their larger group's apartment preference. For example, a group that does not secure the five-person apartment can list members into smaller groups seeking the four-person or three-person apartments.

Meal plans and housing rates

Students living in a Wilch Apartment have the option to choose 7 meals per week or the full meal plan. The meal plan information on this form is only valid if the corresponding student is able to be assigned to Wilch Apartments (any student not assigned to Wilch Apartments will be subject to the meal plan expectations of whatever housing assignment they do get). Students who select a "full" meal plan will make their specific meal plan preference (between the 14 or 20 meals per week) over the summer. All rooms are billed at the rate set by the College. A student living in a single in an apartment will be billed the single room rate.

If your group's selection status and room draw numbers don't secure the apartment preference for your large group, you have the option to split into up to two smaller groups to see if some members can secure a lower occupancy apartment. If the same person is included in both of the two smaller groups, and the first small group secures an apartment, the second group will automatically be discarded. Groups can also decide that if both smaller groups cannot be placed in the apartments, then neither group wants to be placed there. If only the first of the two small groups can be placed in the Wilch Apartments, Residence Life should:
